

Georgia Viral Hepatitis Resource Directory

This resource directory was developed for Georgia health care providers, people living with hepatitis B and/or hepatitis C, and their caregivers.

The directory will be updated regularly. The most recent version can be found at:

<http://dph.georgia.gov/viral-hepatitis>.

Acknowledgements

Information on treatment providers in Georgia was gathered through a phone survey conducted by Global Health AspirAction (<http://www.globalhealthaspiration.com/>), a public health consulting group that specializes in linkage to care for chronic diseases.

A fact sheet, developed by the National Alliance of State & Territorial AIDS Directors (NASTAD), was used to provide information on patient assistance programs and additional financial assistance programs. More information about NASTAD can be found at www.NASTAD.org.

Pharmaceutical Company Patient Assistance and Cost-sharing Assistance Programs: Hepatitis

July 2019

What is a Patient Assistance Program (PAP)?

A patient assistance program (PAP) is a program run through pharmaceutical companies to provide free or low-cost medications to people with low-incomes who do not qualify for any other insurance or assistance programs, such as Medicaid, Medicare or AIDS Drug Assistance Programs (ADAPs). Each individual company has different eligibility criteria for application and enrollment in their patient assistance program.

What is a Cost-sharing Assistance Program (CAP)?

A cost-sharing assistance program (CAP) is a program run through pharmaceutical companies to offer cost-sharing assistance (including deductibles, co-payments and co-insurance) to people with private health insurance to obtain viral hepatitis drugs at the pharmacy.

² Effective July 1, 2015, patients who are insured and who do not meet their payer's coverage criteria will no longer be eligible for support via Gilead's patient assistance program. This includes clients whose insurer has limited access based on: fibrosis score; step-therapy; or clinical criteria (e.g., drug and alcohol testing).

³ Individuals who do not meet the insurance criteria may still qualify for this program if they attest that they have special circumstances of financial and medical hardship, and their income meets the program criteria. Clinical trials are a way to test drugs that are still in development and are monitored by the Food and Drug Administration (FDA). There are many guidelines and requirements that patients must meet to be eligible for clinical trials.

There are many clinical trials for hepatitis C, including here in Georgia.

Before enrolling, patients should ask themselves:

- Why is this drug better than what is currently approved by the FDA?
- What are the possible risks, side effects, and benefits?
- How will the treatment affect quality of life?
- Will researchers cover the cost of the drug and doctor's visits?
- What follow-up care will be required?
- How will the success of the drug be determined?
- Will the results of the clinical trial be shared with participants?
- Will a specialist or primary care provider be in charge of the patient's care?
