and bloodborne pathogen exposures.

“We are here to support clinicians in providing the highest quality care – from basic guidelines questions to advice and support on difficult-to-navigate cases.”

–Deborah Cohan, MD, MPH, Center perinatal consultant since 2005

The CCC, a component of the AIDS Education and Training Centers, is located at the University of San Francisco, California/San Francisco General Hospital and is funded by the Health Resources and Services Administration and the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention.

The Clinician Consultation Center gives expert, round-the-clock clinical advice on perinatal HIV management and helps callers connect HIV-positive pregnant women with local providers.

Our free and confidential services are for healthcare providers of all clinical experience levels.

The Center’s staff of expert physicians, clinical pharmacists, and nurses have delivered over 250,000 expert clinical consultations since 1993.
