RD1062

Disclosure Authorization Form

Purpose of Form

A taxpayer may use Form RD1062 to authorize the Georgia Department of Revenue to disclose and/or discuss confidential tax information for such taxpayer with an appointee for a specific tax type(s) and period(s). Form RD1062 cannot be used as a Power of Attorney and thus does not grant the appointee any powers of representation.

Filing Instructions

Taxpayers should submit Form RD1062 to the appropriate taxing division. Taxpayers should only use this form when submitting a specific request for information.

Specific Instructions

Section 1 - Taxpayer Information

Individuals - Enter your name, address, and any applicable identification numbers.

Section 2 - Appointee

Enter the appointee's name, address, and any applicable identification numbers.

Section 3 - Authorization

Enter the tax type(s) and specific period(s) or year(s) for which the authorization is granted. A general reference to "all years" or "all periods" is not acceptable.

Section 4 - Retention/Revocation of Prior Disclosure Authorization Forms

All existing disclosure authorization forms previously filed by the taxpayer will not be revoked unless the taxpayer checks the box on this line. If the taxpayer checks off this box but does not want to revoke all existing disclosure authorization forms, the taxpayer should either specify the forms that the department should retain or attach a copy of such existing form(s).

A taxpayer may revoke a disclosure authorization form without authorizing a new appointee by filing with the department either:

- (1) A statement of revocation signed by the taxpayer indicating that the authority of the previous disclosure authorization form is revoked along with the name and address of each appointee whose authority is revoked; or
- (2) A copy of the disclosure authorization form to be revoked clearly marked "REVOKED."

It is important to note that the filing of a Form RD1062 disclosure authorization form will not revoke any Power of Attorney that is in effect.
