Dear Ms. «MomLName»:

We would like to ask for your help in a project called the Pregnancy Risk Assessment Monitoring System (PRAMS for short). PRAMS is a survey that asks women about things that can happen before, during, and after pregnancy. All women in Georgia are eligible to be selected for PRAMS, including those who had healthy pregnancies and those who did not. Finding out why some babies are born healthy and others are not can help us create a better future for mothers and babies.

You will be getting your PRAMS survey from the Georgia Department of Public Health in the mail in the next week, along with information that tells more about the project. To thank you for your time and help, we will also send you a small gift.

We do not always know if a mother has lost her baby. If your baby has died, we are truly sorry about your loss and offer our sympathy to you and your family. Your answers are especially important. What we learn from you could help other mothers and babies in the future.

Again, you should get a packet with a survey in the next week. If you have any questions about the project, please call me at our toll-free number, 1-800-743-7265.

Sincerely,
